

Thank you all for coming to my event. At 18:10 I was a little worried that nobody was going to turn up, and then it all happened at once. There were some amazing finishing times.

Also thank you all for your feedback, it is surprising how people see things differently, what I thought were obvious clues perhaps weren't with the lights out.

Some of the ambiguous clues were:-

The crossing control box was the big black box not the button box on the lights.

The wooden fence was actually the wooden railed boundary fence.

Two of the wooden posts were set back in the hedges further than expected and possibly had leaves across them.

The bus shelter was in fact a bus stop.

And finally when explaining where the finish box is, make sure everybody is listening and put the flag out.
