Organizer and Planner Brian Hughes 10 Points

There was a disappointing turn out, Wednesday never being popular, for the last event of the season. Once more, despite the absence of several NSL stalwarts, there was an excellent competition on the Medium course. Colin Spears just pipped Russ Fauset, mirroring the overall result for the season, which is reported separately.

This is the first time I have done 3 'events' in one day! There was a midweek event in Sherwood Pines put on by NOC, just two courses, Green and Light Green. I did the Green, decided this was not enough, had a five minute breather and took in copious water and then ran Light Green. The last time I ran this colour was, I think, the very first event I ever did. The Sherwood Light Green was easy, lightening fast, but very enjoyable. A good idea NOC, run by one man, with pin punching and around 20 controls.

Many thanks for Judith Taylor, who took charge of the maps etc, and would have taken over had I had a breakdown on the way back from Nottingham.
