For many years now Russ has laid claim to the title of BIMM (Bewdley International Mountain Marathon). Well perhaps we can lay a rival claim to that with the MIMM as our event boasted not only plenty of inevitable Malvern climb – but also an international field of runners too!

We were thrilled that so many of you turned out on such a horrible wet and foggy evening to take part in the event and hope you enjoyed the courses which were perhaps a bit more adventurous than usual including slippery steps and slopes, cow-filled fields and the usual Hartmann domestic dispute prior to the drive to the remote start.

All the courses were very closely contested which gave plenty to talk about in the intensive post-event analytical coaching session which followed – so intensive in fact that we still had headaches the following morning!
