I enjoyed planning the first Worcester urban event and became convinced that the city centre has great potential for a full scale urban event. All we need is a map! I used the Open O Map for the first time and struggled at first to get the pdf file into a form which I could modify to add in some footpath detail which was missing but I was generally surprised how much detail was available.

Andy & Marion White came to the rescue the day before the event when I couldn't get the Purple Pen files to print out due to lack of memory on my ancient PC (Purple Pen doesn't run on Macs). The only other problem I had was finding the Hop Market closed the evening before the event when putting out control stickers- it had been open every previous evening when I had been scouting for control sites and checking the map.

On the evening one of the controls (on a waste bin next to the river) had been removed during the day and all runners except Russ couldn't find a control on a bollard outside a church. I've given everyone the benefit of the doubt.
