Organiser's Comments

Next time I do a "Line" event I will

- a) blow the map up to 1:5000
- b) overprint the line
- c) put path junction controls on the ground at the junction
- d) make all controls a bit more visible

I am impressed that so many found so many controls. There were 12 on the Blue, 9 on the Green and 8 on the Orange.

Line events are a good idea if you have very little time to put out controls - as it means you can miss some out if you are running late.

The enthusiasm and obvious enjoyment shown by Emma and Corinne made it all worth while - I started orienteering 30 years ago at an SEE and I remember how much fun it was.

Could the one person who only put £1.50 in the box please make good their contribution at the next event.

It was very nice collecting the controls in - Kinver is at its best in May...

EVENT ACCOUNTS - The True Cost if we were to charge for everything apart from our time and ignore things like map surveying costs and so on...
