(Where ties occur fastest time takes the higher place.)

Mike Dugmore, the planner, was worried that Leasows was too small. How wrong can you be! Brilliant course and lousy weather combined to make an excellent event. Planned to perfection, there was no easy way to make a circular tour of the controls. Good use was made of the obstacles such as the golf course and lakes. Only one person managed to clear everything and that was Chris McSweeney showing his form, but he has an uphill struggle to get ahead of John Embrey, Richard Dearden and Dave Williams who are not going to let him take the title without a fight.

Next Event brand new area, never previously used for orienteering, planned by the master himself, Andy Hemsted, See you at Shrawley Jan 17th. Barry Houghton
